

PMR Technical Workshop:

Putting together a carbon pricing policy proposal

October 21, 2020, 8:30am – 10:00am (ET)

The Partnership for Market Readiness (PMR) is currently developing a guidebook to help policymakers in arriving at a recommendation for carbon pricing policy based on jurisdiction circumstances and impact assessments. The guidebook draws on the practical experience from PMR implementing countries and donors and provides a companion toolkit to aid the policymakers think through the key decisions and data points needed to consider and develop a carbon pricing instrument.

This virtual workshop – being organized under the aegis of the 23rd PMR Assembly -- will provide insights on the process, considerations and tools for developing carbon pricing recommendations and selecting the most appropriate instrument. It seeks participant feedback on how the upcoming Partnership for Market Implementation (PMI) can best help jurisdictions to put together their carbon pricing implementation roadmaps.

Agenda

- Opening remarks: Venkata Putti (PMR Secretariat) (5 mins)
- Moderator: Thomas Duchaine (Ministry of Sustainable Development, Environment, and Fight Against Climate Change, Québec)
- Expert presentation: Developing a carbon pricing roadmap: Thomas Kansy and Stuart Evans (Vivid Economics) (15-20 mins)
- Panel discussion (40-45 mins):
 - o Looking back at Singapore's carbon tax proposal: Rui Yun Gan (Prime Minister's Office, Singapore)
 - o South Africa's carbon tax and offset system: Sharlin Hemraj (Treasury, South Africa)
 - o Colombia's experience developing its carbon pricing policy mix: Adriana Gutiérrez (Ministry of Environment and Sustainable Development, Colombia)
- Q&A (25mins)